

Algonac Community Schools - Community Update

December 4, 2020

The Algonac Community Schools will continue with remote learning through at least the end of next week (week ending December 11th). The Algonac Board of Education will be meeting early next week to evaluate our learning plan moving forward. While the Board is adamant about the need to get students back in person, many factors must be considered.....most importantly the safety of our students and staff.

Other factors that need to be considered are adequately staffing the buildings and classrooms, avoiding the potential spread of the virus within the buildings, and analyzing state and county data. While I realize that the unknown is inconvenient and uncomfortable for families and students, these listed factors and data cannot be ignored.

I will update everyone on Wednesday, December 9, regarding the status for the last week before winter break (week beginning December 14). Again, I realize that these short term windows are not ideal. However, the COVID virus can change things drastically from day to day. Planning too far ahead of schedule might keep us out of school for longer than we need to be.
